

Five internet safety tips

Here are five internet safety tips for kids.

Number one – don't give out personal information, such as home address, school name or phone number.

Number two – never send pictures to strangers.

Number three – keep passwords private except from parents.

Number four – don't download anything without permission. It may contain a virus that can harm your computer.

And number five – tell an adult if you receive a mean or strange message.
